

Proper Identification of individual patients has and continues to be a problem across siloed information. The individual patient identifier initiative was on track in 1999 and along came Y2K and kicked it to the back burner. Is a unique patient id going to be implemented or mandated?